The month of June is all about the fellas because it's the official Men's Health Month. 2017 will mark the 23rd anniversary for the month, which was signed into law by President Clinton as National Men's Health Week to help raise awareness about health issues impacting men and boys.

Regular checkups and age-appropriate screenings can improve your health and extend your life. You change the batteries in your smoke alarms every six months. You take the car in for tune-ups every 15,000 miles, but when was the last time you saw your doctor? Yeah, you still need to find the phone number, your insurance card, and a couple of hours for the visit, but remember, checking in with your doctor is another way to protect your family. Contact your doctor to schedule your annual checkup and for more ways to take care of your health, visit menshealthresourcecenter.com.

For a schedule of checkups and age-appropriate screenings for men visit getitchecked.com.

"Recognizing and preventing men's health problems is not just a man's issue. Because of its impact on wives, mothers, daughters, and sisters, men's health is truly a family issue." — Congressman Bill Richardson (May 1994)
